

Only New Zealand, only the best

Independent Fisheries is one of New Zealand's largest deep sea fishing companies, catching and processing a variety of species from the abundant waters of the great southern oceans and delivering them to wholesale and commercial customers around the globe and Kiwis here in NZ.

We only sell what we catch.

With our origins as a local fish and chip shop in the 1950s, Independent Fisheries is proud to be family owned and operated to this day.

We supply a wide variety of species, but our main products are hoki, southern blue whiting and arrow squid. Focusing on a simple line of key, quality products makes us your go-to source for this core range; you won't find a more reliable supplier that has the volume and turnaround we do.

Real NZ Fish

Hoki

Macrurus novaezelandiae

Hoki is one of New Zealand's most commercially important deepwater fisheries. Hoki are caught by trawling within four main fishing regions off New Zealand's South Island: on the Chatham Rise, Campbell Plateau, along the West Coast and in Cook Strait.

Since 2001, the New Zealand hoki fisheries have been certified as meeting the very high standards required by the Marine Stewardship Council so you know it's sustainably managed, it was the first major whitefish fishery in the world to do so.

Southern Blue Whiting

Micromesistius australis

Most of the southern blue whiting catch comes from the Bounty Platform and Campbell Island Rise, given the large numbers there. They are harvested mainly by mid-water and semi-pelagic trawl.

New Zealand southern blue whiting were the first blue whiting fisheries in the world to gain Marine Stewardship Council certification, the 'gold standard' for sustainable fisheries performance.
